

Assoc. Prof. Dr. Virginija Poškutė

Dr. Virginija Poškutė holds a PhD in social sciences (Economics), Social policy analyst, Associate professor at ISM University of Management and Economics, Head of Executive programme Market and Business Competitiveness: Economics for Managers.

Virginija has diploma of economist-analyst from Vilnius University, Master's degree in European Social Policy Analysis from Roskilde University, Denmark and University of Bath, UK. Doctoral studies accomplished at Vilnius University, Lithuania and Tilburg University, The Netherlands.

She was Fulbright researcher at Darden Graduate School, University of Virginia, USA.

Virginija has been developing her academic competences at Harvard Business School (USA), London School of Economics (UK), Fudan University (China), Singapore Management University, Lorange Institute of Business Zurich (Switzerland), Bled School of Management (Slovenia).

Virginija has extensive international job experience: UNDP/Lithuania, CEPS/INSTEAD Institute in Luxembourg (assistant professor in the international master's programme "European Social Policy Analysis") and Leuven University, Belgium. Has participated in various international (OECD, World Bank, United Nations, United Nations Development Programme, UNICEF, European Commission, etc.) and national projects on economic and social policy issues.

Virginija has extensive teaching experience in Lithuania and abroad (USA, Germany, France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Poland, The Netherlands, Estonia, Portugal, etc.).

Teaches social policy, welfare economics, competitiveness, business ethics and corporate social responsibility courses at various levels (bachelor, master, doctoral and professionals).